'I'll Give My Love an Apple'.. A fine Nova Scotia version of an ancient riddle song that dates back to the 15th century. An early form, 'My Sister Sent Me from over the Sea,' seems to have been a dancing song, and similar riddles formed part of the old British ballad 'Captain Wedderburn's Courtship' (Child Ballads no. 46).

(4) For my love . . .--i.e., in return for my love I give myself unto prayer. For a concise expression of the same kind as "I prayer," see Psalm 120:7 , "I peace." Of course the psalmist means, that in the face of all the taunts and reproaches of his maligners, he simply and naturally has recourse to prayer, and, as the context seems to indicate, prayer for them.
